

ABSTRACT

In a method of teaching a traveling path to a robot, when a self-propelled robot learns a traveling path, automatic processing is performed as follows: an instructor only follows the traveling path, and the self-propelled robot set at a learning mode follows the traveling path of the instructor and determines path teaching data. Thus, it is possible to teach a path to the self-propelled robot without the necessity for the instructor to directly edit position data.